

HERO EHUA...MOVES...THE...EARTH...ENLARGES...ORBIT

Hn explanation is needed right from the top... for the word "Hero" here is taken from the 14 Lost Books of Enki. The other name for "Hero" is "Hercules". This can come as "Herakles", Herculis" and "Herculobis". There is a particular 'stance' which indicates a Hero styled Hercules and that stance can be seen in many illustrations, statues and glyphs, the first of which that comes to my mind is Sagitta in the vignette shown here. Not to be confused with Hero the inventor, or Perseus the 'hero'

.THE SIXTH CLAY TABLET OF ENKI

"Let the pure gold in the chariots directly from Earth to Nibiru be carried Directly to Earth from Nibiru let heroes and supplies be coming!
To the hero Utu, of Enlil the grandson, its command was given
An Eagle's helmet for him was fashioned, with Eagle's wings was he decorated Before departing; Anu the heroes and heroines assembled.
With fifty heroes an expedition to the Abzu* he led, with weapons were they armed
So to Enlil Ninurta said. With the Earthlings in the Edin, the heroes are becalmed"

*Abzu is Africa... from Tablet three:

Where the landmass the shape of a heart was given, in the lower part thereof,
Golden veins from Earth's innards were abundant!

... of Gold the Birthplace, Ea/Enki to the region the name Abzu gave.

The Being that we need, it already exists!
Thus did Enki to them a secret of the Abzu reveal.

With astonishment did the other leaders Enki's words hear; by the words they were fascinated.

Creatures in the Abzu there are, Enki was saying, that walk erect on two legs,¹

Their forelegs they use as arms, with hands they are provided.

Among the animals of the steppe they live. They know not dressing in garments,
They eat plants with their mouths, they drink water from lake and ditch.

Shaggy with hair is their whole body, their head hair is like a lion's;

From the Third Clay Tablet:

Fifty heroes will for the mission be required to journey to Earth

Bearing Eagle's helmets, carrying each a Fish's suit, the heroes the chariot one by one entered.

Anzu to heroes' commands uttered, their Fishes' suits to put on he ordered.

A hatch of the chariot was then opened, into the marshes the heroes descended

.THUS THE "HEROES" ARE THE OANNES.

APPLE BRANCH WAS LYRA/HERCULES; RAMUS POMIFER - IS HERCULES KEYSTONE - OGMIOS IS THE CELTIC HERCULES

SAGITTA as HERO-HERCULES

1that walk erect on two legs: proving from the mouth of Enki/Ea and Enlil-YHWH they came AFTER the Creator God Eloim had created Mother Nature on the Earth and all that is in Genesis 1. The gods of Orion only appeared in Genesis 2 for terra-forming.

See the forum SIX DAYS

On the right is supposed to be Enki or Enlil, but judging by the stance, it must be a Hero, with Erid.anus the river constellation, (travelling from the fishes of Pisces to the foot of Orion) and Vulture/Lyra/Vega which is situated right there next to Hercules constellation! Lyra was once Tortoise constellation

I mention that Lyra was once Tortoise (not turtle) constellation because the vignettes in the Lost Book show Lyra/Tortoise having a major role in events

On the left are all astronomical figures with Auriga (Mule & Panniers) with victim kid in arms, (unable to see the next one), Hero and the seated queen Cassiopeia

Jhen there is a second explanation needed for the word EHUUA. This is a rune. Not to be confused with Eihwaz (Yewiz). It is Ehwa(z) that became the “E” in our modern alphabet Beginning with the “E”... The rune as it appears in the skies as an “M” needs to be turned sideways Σ ... this is where I disagree with Allan Webber regarding the sky rune for Cassiopeia, which to me is either a “W” or an “M” and Allan has Cassiopeia as Ansuz, which is “A”. His explanations given here, are good however, and do come from Nostradamus. But Ehwa appears as an “M” in the runes, formerly representing a galloping horse – or “progress” and this side of Anno domini it slid sideways to become an “E”.

“Ehwaz is the rune associated with twin gods, heroes or horses. Sleipnir is the name of the horse and represents fertility and partnership. Sleipnir was an eight legged grey horse that could cross land and sea. It typified the wind which blows from the eight cardinal points of the compass. In the legend of Perseus, the winged horse Pegasus is born out of the blood of Medusa spilled at the time she was beheaded. Pegasus was born at the time of Perseus' battle against Neptune who also created a horse, Arion. This horse possessed human feet for its right legs; it spoke with a human voice and ran with incredible swiftness. Arion became the horse of the hero Hercules. Here then are the twin horses and twin heroes; Perseus and Hercules, Arion and Pegasus. The combined properties of these horses are then found in Sleipnir.”

From the Runic Skies by Allan Webber

“Ansuz is the rune of inspired speech, the passing of knowledge in an orally based society. It is the rune of the poet and the seer. These references suggest that Ansuz is Hermes,[Thoth] the messenger of speech, and therefore represents the planet Mercury which is also known by the name Hermes. It is quite likely some or all runes have planetary significance as well as representing fixed stars. Cassiopeia's claim to fame was from her words through boasting of her own and Andromeda's inherited beauty. Such speech seems hardly inspiring or poetic but more provocative. Despite this I chose Ansuz for Cassiopeia because after all my other selections Ansuz remained unplaced and yet it fitted elegantly to the gap in the sky left by the other runic figures.”

Allan clearly states his reasons for choosing “A” for Cassiopeia. For the purposes of deciphering the anagrams the “A” will be left this way. Allan had received instruction from Nostradamus as did I. The instructions for the collator (me) were mostly aimed at repairing the errors I had made – and were ten pages longer than Allan's!

It is easy to see how confusing things can become when runes come into the equation.

Left: This is Cassiopeia with her five stars as we see her and she can appear ‘upside down’ giving us then an “M” shape too.

But that (M) is Hercules! (Above)
The “W” in our modern alphabet derives from the “wunjo” rune, which looks nothing like a ‘W’!
In appearance it is a giant “P” - at right

NOTE REGARDING THE WEBSITE. RECENTLY I HAVE FOUND I HAVE NOT BEEN ABLE TO ACCESS THE WEB SITE DUE TO IT BEING BUSY. THEREFORE A SECOND WEBSITE IS UP

ᚨ

This is modern Ansuz.
In the Vinca runes on the left it can be seen in two places, the second at the top row and the fourth in the second row; neither of which is a modern "A" – but are merely the progenitors for modern day runes, much later (millennia) one of which becoming our "A".

APOLOGY

Those of you who have been regular readers will be frequently annoyed to see quatrain which appear to be duplications out of previous forums. I know I get quite annoyed when an author repeats a point. This has been done intentionally for two reasons; usually it is an update of the former quatrain and often a reader is a first time visitor and has not seen that line before. This is apart from the obvious fact of each genre being treated in its own forum separately.

See 1 38 2 below on pg 6:

The Mantis is obviously NOT in charge in this scene

Some say this is Kain & Abel

A different view of an Anu and an Oannes with Haoma

If you are wondering why the emphasis seems to rest on constellations here and in other forums from Nostradamus, it is because the Lost Book of Cesar de Nostredame is one hundred percent ciphered using constellations from the Alchemye List. Without knowing the obsolete constellations, no decoding can be done.

This also applies to ancient Greek glyphs and almost any art depicting animals from those times.

Gobekli Tepi is not exempt either; and other ancient archaeological sites, long before the times of Nostradamus.

"But Hercules had help with this particular labour. As the crab (Ursa Major) kept nipping at his ankles Hercules called to his boyhood friend Iolaus for help. He was also Hercules' nephew and the most important of his many male friends. The two had been travelling companions on many journeys. It was actually Iolaus who came up with the idea of burning the hydra's neck stumps to stop new heads from growing, and he dashed around with a burning brand at the ready every time Hercules sliced another head off".

WAS HE USING THE STRANGE "HEATING TOOL" THE "SLAYER RAY"?

SLAYER RAY

3. A bond, connection or tie.

VINCA RUNE 'U' is Mistletoe Day December 23. L: is Celt Rowan = January 21 – February 17, so these two dates are tied in somehow
 But "U" also means "Uranite" (of the heavens) and "L" can also mean the Tau Cetians (coming to help).

Finally "U" is the sky rune for Pavo and Pavo does appear many times in the vignettes of the Lost Book of Cesar de Nostredame

It is a really strange thing - but the person who has been handed the job of putting together the hidden texts really needed to have an in depth knowledge of horses...

Many of the clues/ciphers relate to horse oriented things...there are 38 pages of guidance to the collator.

(There was 28 pages of guidance for Allan Webber who did the computer program to get the words)
This all in its entirety tells me on a daily basis that we do have someone watching over us...

Back to what I was doing - line 10 24 4 goes like this:

ISABELLE EBRILLADE QUADRILLE 10 24 4

to begin with - how in the world did Allan (his computer) come up with this combination?

ISABELLE - the Ysabella was the palomino horse named for their COLOUR - golden... by Queen Isabella of Spain and the twist is that the very name Isabelle means GODS PROMISE – so this one word is saying and reiterating an entire phrase

: GODS PROMISE OF THE GOLDEN OAR LEAGUE, (in other lines) and GOLDEN HOST DOING (in other lines)

EBRILLADE - a bridle check, to turn a horse suddenly because it needs "checking" (re-tuning its mind)

In recent lines (many of them) it seems that the Earth is going to take a TURN which will be a CHECK - the reason for this has also been given:

The Earth is about to pass into a major solar flare that is extremely definitive - between the latitudes of 39 degrees north to 55 degrees north the other word used to describe how definitive is "POE" -

POE who was so extremely intrigued by spontaneous HUMAN COMBUSTION

QUADRILLE –

a dance performed (in Spain) between six couples, also a dancing movement for highly trained horses (in Spain)

There are two meanings (again) for this one word:

the Earth will be doing a "dance" - rocking to and fro - four times - before lying down on her side. This pushes us off our current orbit changing the length of our year and fulfilling the Maya Long Count calendar at the end of this year.

(This is what sets off Geelong, Canary Islands, Peru and Bahre in India)

The word SIX refers to visitors coming from other worlds. In other lines they are "the second coming".

The Golden Oar league is one of them (from Argo) in 2 5 and finally - confirmation (in the AUSTRALIA forum) that Australia will be the pivot point of least CENTRIFUGAL FORCE - making SPAIN the DANCER!

Sauf - bar (Obs for CANCER AND URSA MAJOR) - besides - but - contrary - else - except - pass - piece - provide - specify - unless save safe excepting

There are three quatrain lines which tell us who it is in these space craft. 3 40 4 "IS LUTES (Lyrans) FLEUU TIES".

FROM THE EPIC OF GILGAMESH

"Only Shamash the hero crosses the ocean: [SEA of constellations]
Apart from the sun god, who does cross the ocean
The crossing is perilous, its way full of hazard,
And midway lie the Waters of Death, blocking the passage forward.
So, besides, Gilgamesh, once you have crossed the ocean [SEA]
When you reach the Waters of Death, what then will you do?

The SEA here refers to that area of the Milky Way in which sits all the nautical constellations. The Waters of Death may be referring to the waters which flow from Aquarius becoming Erid.anus.

"The death of Enkidu would thus occur at about the time of Cancer — which sign, however, was known to the Sumerians not as a crab, but as the Carpenter [SO THIS MEANS THAT CARPENTER IS THE TAIL OF LEO ~ DENEBO] and in fact, Enkidu, as we have seen, is a sort of carpenter, for he is a builder of doorways. [PORTALS]

Gilgamesh Journeys Through the Zodiac...by John David Ebert

The digging of wells in Mesopotamian ritual is always associated with opening up portals to the underworld, and so it is appropriate that immediately after the lion sequence, he comes to the Mashu (i.e. "twin") mountains of the East, where he encounters a scorpion man and his wife guarding the gate. Now, at first glance, we would be tempted to think that these figures represent Scorpio, but it is more likely that the scorpion people [MANTIS] represent Libra, since according to Robert Graves, one of the two scorpion people later became that constellation.

(THE GREEKS CALLED THE "ANT PEOPLE" MYRMIDONS – MANTIDS from Ant.ares)

As Utnapishtim recounts the story of the flood to Gilgamesh, he tells him that Enki warned him that Enlil (the YHWH) planned to destroy humanity and that Utnapishtim should build an ark shaped exactly like a cube ("her length and breadth shall be the same").

This is a strange detail until we realize that for the Mesopotamians the constellation of Pisces included the so-called Pegasus Square (the Field) between the two fish, and that this square was known as "1 iku," precisely the dimensions of the ark (an iku was a unit of measurement equivalent to 3600 square meters, note that 12 divides into it. Twelve is a base number for the Anun.nakim). When the ark lands atop the mountain, the first thing Utnapishtim does is to send out three birds to find land:

A dove, a swallow and a raven; The Dove (Pleiades) sits in Taurus. The Raven/Corvus is at the feet of Leo.

The swallow, in the "tail" of Pisces - along with the other two birds, is thus associated with inaugurating a new post-diluvian World Age, just as Pisces, at the very end of the zodiac, is the last

The last has been placed in Italics – because of the coincidence with the vignette of the two fish, the dividing earth and Sagitta (the Hero)

The fourth and final component of the Mesopotamian constellation of Pisces was the birth goddess Anun.itu

In the Epic, the god Enki refers to Utnapishtim as the "son of Ubar-Tutu." Turning to a document known as the Sumerian King List, we note that Ubar.tutu was the last king who ruled before the coming of the flood. After the flood, kingship descends from heaven for a second time, and a new cycle begins of kings who live much shorter lives (approximately 1000 years on average instead of tens of thousands each). But if we count the number of years from the time of the flood until the reign of Gilgamesh, we arrive at the interesting number of 26,554 years, which is just 634 years more than the number associated with a complete cycle of the precession of the equinoxes, namely, 25,920 years. (divisible by 12

In the quatrains, Roy (Roi) with a capital "R" is referring to Cepheus the King constellation. With a lower case "r" it is a local king. Notice the word "resusciter" with one "s" where it is spelt 'ressusciter' normally. To have had a "spare" "s" left over could have been disastrous, as that is a major date within the Hidden Texts – that of the Celtic Willow (and Owl) being April 15 – May 12. Commonly Easter falls within these dates and Easter is a date the Anun.nakim cannot resist. By not having the word spelt correctly, the date is not included and does not apply. Bon (good/ normal) heur (luck/ hours) regarding the cloning from DNA of a deceased adult (to keep in mind the word "adult" and not "child") – part of the cloned sheep Dolly's problem was that she was made from adult cells! Ogmios

Gaulish deity of eloquence, possibly of the underworld

Text Source

Lucian says Ogmios is equated to Herakles by the Gauls, who depicted him in a painting as an extremely old man with burned skin, with Herakles' attributes of the Nemian lion skin, a club, and a bow and arrow, with a chain from his tongue to the ears of several followers, attesting to his eloquence. His dark, sunburned face causes Lucian to compare Ogmios to Charon and Iapetus--gods of the underworld.

Inscriptions

- CIL XIII, 11295 (Durocotorum, now Reims, France): Ogl(aio?) Aug(usto) sac(rum) / Ateuritus / seplas(iarius) / v(otum) s(olvit) l(ibens) m(erito).

The CIL notes that Ogl[aio] may be a mistake for Ogm[io], but this is only conjecture.

- Lost defixio at Bregenz, Austria (Brigantia in Roman times): links Ogmios with Dis Pater and Aeracura, implying that he was an underworld deity. A still-extant curse tablet features a woman curses her lover, telling him to go to Ogmios.

Pottery Source--a Sun god?

Ross mentions a pottery shard found at Rutupiae (Richborough, Kent) which features a figure with long curling hair and rays proceeding from his head, holding a whip (which she identifies with Sol Invictus), with the name Ogmia.

However, the connection to the sun may not mean Ogmios (or Ogmia) is identified as a sun god, but refers back to his "sunburned" face.

HE IS RED

God of the Underworld/Ancestor God

Ogmios' identification as a god of the underworld is based on several attributes:

- his identification with Dis Pater and Aeracura
- the woman's curse sending her lover to Ogmios
- Lucian's comparison with Charon (ferryman of the dead) and Iapetus (Titan of Tartarus)
- His burned skin may be connected to his association with the West and sunset (and often the location of the land of the dead) (Zeidler, 6)

Two of the above features point to Ogmios' role as an ancestor god:

- Identified with Dis Pater, whom Caesar tells us was seen by the Gauls as their ultimate ancestor (BG VI.18). There is an interesting parallel with Donn, the ancestor of the Irish, who rules Tech Duinn the island of the dead to the southwest of Ireland.
- Identified with Hercules, whom Greek myth made the ancestor of the Celts

Connections to other figures

The attributes of eloquence and strength point to a clear analogue with the Irish figure Ogma, champion of the Tuatha Dé Danann and inventor of the Ogham alphabet. There is also a linguistic connection between Ogmios and the Welsh Eufydd ap Dôn; Birkhan gives the progression of Ogomios/Ogumios < Ogmios < Oumid < Euuyd < Eufydd. He may also be connected to Hefydd Hen (spelled Heueyd Hen in the manuscripts), father of Rhiannon, whose epithet hen means "old"--again, connecting to Ogmios' depiction as aged.

Another connection is found with the aforementioned Donn. Zeidler notes

- Donn's name means "dark" or "brown"--like Ogmios' face
- Donn is ancestor of the Irish
- Donn is a skilled warrior

However, unlike Ogmios (or Ogma for that matter), Donn is not associated with eloquence. In fact, it is the opposite--he insults Ériu, which causes the Milesians to retreat.

Another Irish figure similar to Ogmios is Fénus Farsaid, whom the Auraicept na nÉces says was an ancestor of the Gaedil, going back further than the Milesians. Fénus is described as the inventor of both ogam(!)and Gaelic.

The Otherworld

The land of the sidhe / Tuatha Dé Danann / Children of Don / Children of Llyr. That is, the home of the supernatural figures alternately called gods and faeries.

The designation of this land as "the otherworld" might be due to the etymology of the word Annwfn, one of the Welsh names for the place:

an- (intensifying prefix) + dwfn: deep = "The Very-Deep Place"

an- (negating prefix) + dwfn: world = "The Not-World"

In other words, we are dealing with a place which is deep in the earth, but not what we think of as the underworld, i.e. the land of the dead (called Uffern in later Welsh). The pagan Celts--and modern druids--believed in reincarnation, and so there was no real "land of the dead" per se, and especially no "god of the dead" despite the claims of Julius Caesar that the Celts say they are descended of Dis Pater. Only later, in the manuscripts, are we told of Tech Duinn as the home of the dead.

In Celtic mythology, it seems that the Otherworld can be divided into two realms (using Irish terms): the sidhe and Hy-Breasil.

Sídhe

The sídhe, while generally used as a collective term for the gods or faeries, originally referred to the long barrows, the hollow hills that the Tuatha Dé Danann [THESE ARE THE ANUN.NAKI] inhabited.

According to Irish myth, the Tuatha Dé Danann were driven into the hills--literally, sídhe--after being defeated by the Milesians, the modern Irish. They sought refuge inside the hills, and through the wisdom of Manannan mac Lír, divided up into separate kingdoms, with one high king over the various sídhe--this king was Bodb Derg, much to the anger of Lír. The most famous of these sídhe were Brú na Bóinne and Temhair in Meath.

What must be remembered, though, is that these hills are in fact Neolithic structures--burial mounds. While the early history of Ireland is somewhat murky, let's propose an idea, one which has been floated around before. Could the Irish have known the function of the sídhe? Could the worship of these gods/faeries who inhabit the sídhe be a form of ancestor worship? It's unknown, and purely speculation.

The sídhe also exists in Welsh tradition. It is referred to as a gorsedd, meaning "seat", tor meaning "hill" or "tower", and "Caer Siddi" in the poems of Taliesin. For instance, there is the Gorsedd Arbeth, where Pwyll pen Annwfn first sees Rhiannon, and where later Pryderi causes an enchantment to fall on Dyfed. Then there is Glastonbury Tor, where according to one saint's life--that of Saint Collen--Gwynn ap Nudd rules over the Tylwyth Teg. Giraldus Cambrensis records the story of Elidur, a priest who lived with the "Good People" as a child, after finding their home in the side of a hill. Interestingly, Giraldus claims that they spoke Greek which would back up certain claims of descent from the Greeks and Trojans, a common theme in some of the early histories

Then there is Caer Siddi, mentioned in the poems of Taliesin:

Save only seven

None returned from Caer Siddi.

—The Spoils of Annwn“

Perfect is my seat in Caer Siddi Manawydd and Pryderi know it.

—Song Before the Sons of Llyr“

While the word siddi is a borrowing from the Irish sidhe, it should be noted that this actually seems to refer to an Otherworld island; for that, see below under Hy Breasil.

It should be noted that in Welsh literature there isn't a firm tradition of sidhe as a home to the gods, as there is in Irish literature.

Figures like Gwydion, Arianrhod, and Bendigedfran do not live in the hollow hills; it is the home to "lesser" supernatural beings who have not been rationalized into kings and queens.

While Annwn/Annwfn—the Otherworld as ruled by Arawn—isn't specifically said to be inside a hill, it is likely that that is the case in the earliest version of the story. In alternate tales, when Annwfn is ruled by Gwyn ap Nudd, entrance is gained through Glastonbury Tor (see "St. Collen and Gwyn ap Nudd").

Now, when a human finds his way into these sidhe, it is usually on one of the "Fire Festivals":

Samhain, Imbolc, Beltane, and Lughnassadh. On these days—but especially Samhain and Beltane—the doors on the hills would open and the faeries would walk about the realm of men.

There are numerous stories, both literary (such as those dealing with Fionn mac Cumhill) and folklore (too numerous to mention) wherein the hero witnesses the faeries leaving and entering the hollow hills on these days, participating on combat on these days, and so on. This method seems to be discouraged by the faeries—this is their time, and the human who stumbles upon them is often punished in some form.

The other method of finding a way into the sidhe was to be lost: caught up in a magical fog—such as when Conn Céad Cathach and his men were caught, and found themselves at the house of Lugh Lamhfada, or lost in the woods, such as when Pwyll ran into Arawn while hunting. This is usually a case of being selected by the god for a special reason—kingship, or switching roles for a duel. In these instances, the hero is (eventually) rewarded for his deeds.

What is most important about the sidhe is that while it is supernatural, ruled by gods, it is very much like our world—there are wars, jealousy, betrayals. It is as full as strife as our world, and often this strife bleeds over into our world.

Hy Breasil

The term Hy Breasil (and its various spellings) refers to the Blessed Isles of legend. Until the modern era (well into the age of exploration), maps would often have an island of "Brasil" or "Breasil" out in the Atlantic. The idea of islands out to the west is, of course, half based in fact and half based in myth: the Hesperides and Hy Breasil could just as easily be the Azores and the Faroe Islands. So it is no surprise that the Celts had islands in their Otherworld; it is important to notice, though, that they differ with the sidhe in both their governance and their reachability.

BRASIL MEANS "IRON PYRITES" (where the word brass derived) and COPPER ONCE THE MAIN EXPORT OF BRAZIL

This brass plate contains detailed engravings.

The engravings are of a high quality and represent a calendar of the ancients.

The centre represents various periods throughout history and the future and has numerical significance with the markings contained within certain angular ratios.

The plate is interesting because it is one of the few brass artifacts found from this ancient civilization and this indicates part of the plate's special purpose as a tool. It is part of an ancient timekeeping mechanism and allows one to interpret the data in that hidden sepulchre. In 1944, a ten year old boy, Newton Anderson dropped a lump of coal and broke it in half in his basement and found that it contained this bell inside.

The bituminous coal that was mined near his house in Upshur County West Virginia is supposed to be about 300 million years old! What is a brass bell with an iron clapper doing in coal ascribed to the Carboniferous Period?

According to Irish (and occasionally in Welsh) mythology, the islands lie "beyond the ninth wave." Now, the reason for this is likely bound up with their fondness for the number three—nine, of course, is 3×3 —a square of three, probably representing perfection (this is just speculation). The Otherworld islands are lands of peace and eternal life, unlike the sidhe:

Without grief, without sorrow, without death,

Without any sickness, without debility,

That is the sign of Emain—Uncommon is an equal marvel.

—The Voyage of Bran“

In Irish myth, these islands are ruled by Manannan mac Lír. Now, Manannan, while a god, is not really one of the Tuatha Dé Danann. He has no pedigree with them, but instead is descended of Ler, "the sea" about whom little is known, though he is the later basis of Shakespeare's King Lear. And so, as the isles are not ruled by the TDD, they are peaceful, not centred on the inter-tribal warfare of the sidhe. They are also extremely difficult to access. One only reaches these islands through the invitation of Manannan or his daughters. This process is usually termed an echtrae.

In The Voyage of Bran and in other Irish texts, we are given several names for the Otherworld Islands: (Planets)

Emhain Abhlach: Plain of Apples

Tir fo Thonn: the Land Beneath the Wave

Mag Réin (Auriga?)

Tir Tairnigir: the Land of Promise

Mag Mon (Aquarius)

Tir na nOg: the Land of Youth

Inis Subai: Isle of Joy

Hy Breasil / Hy-Brazil / Hi Brasil: Most Best Place (?)

Tír na mBean: the Land of Women

(Brasil means copper)

The Voyage of Máel Dúin (though a Christian imram) lists some forty islands, while The Voyage of Saint Brendan lists still more islands; both texts are similar to the early, pagan echtrae in their descriptions of these islands.

For a human to come to these islands was, except in certain circumstances, to be there for eternity. Connla and Oisín were chosen by love stricken daughters of Manannan. While Connla was never seen again, Oisín foolishly decided to return to Ireland to see his family again; he found that hundreds of years had passed in the interim. Moreover, once he dismounted from his enchanted white horse and set foot on the soil, those hundreds of years caught up with Oisín and he died. Similarly, Bran, after visiting the various islands mentioned above, returned to Ireland only to find that he had been away for hundreds of years; he sailed back out to sea, never seen again.

More pleasant is the story of Cormac mac Airt, who was brought to the islands by Manannan so as to give him the cup of truthfulness and other magical items. Cormac was able to return home, as he had been invited there for a short time, not intended as a husband for one of the faeries.

In Welsh myth, though the islands are less prominent, they do exist, more or less ruled by the enchanted head of Bendigedfran ap Llyr, brother of Manawyddan (the Welsh Manannan).

Here there is no aging, no death, great feasts, and the ability to forget all pain. According to Branwen uerch Llyr, he and his companions stayed on Gwales (an unidentified island) for eighty years in this state, before one of them broke the enchantment by opening a forbidden door.

In some medieval Welsh traditions, Myrddin (Merlin) gathered the Thirteen Treasures of Britain and housed them on his "Isle of Glass."

In The Book of Taliesin there is the poem "The Spoils of Annwn" which recounts an unsuccessful attempt of Arthur to raid the Otherworld islands in search of a magic cauldron. In it, he lists what seem to be eight islands, with a fort on each island:

And finally, one cannot write of Otherworld islands without mentioning Avalon, Ynys Afalach in Welsh. Originally ruled by Afallach son of Nudd with his daughter Modron, later medieval versions have it ruled by Brons (Bendigedfran ap Llyr) or Pelles (Pwyll). It is where King Arthur was taken by Morgan le Fay (Modron?) to be healed of his wounds after the battle of Camlann; it is also said to be where the Holy Grail resides.

(Oak Island – the Money Pit)

One of the most recognized symbols of the Otherworld Islands is the apple. Like the name of Avalon (from afal "apple") to the Silver Branch of Manannan, which is carried by visitors from the islands when Luring away the hero, it is a familiar symbol, with counterparts in the Greek Hesperides, the Norse Apples of Youth, and the Judeo-Christian Fruit of the Tree of Life.

The Axis Mundi

Finally, I have read about a tradition of "The Stone of the Tree"--the Cloch a Bhile--located at Lough Gur, Co. Limerick. The Cloch a Bhile itself is a large stone (it looks like a tree trunk) which is said to represent a tree growing at the bottom of Lough Gur. At this tree, one could access the Otherworld. It was under the protection of Aine Cli and her son Gearoid larla. Nearby, there is still a stone circle, reportedly the largest in Ireland. Were one to climb the branches of this tree, they could access all parts of the Otherworld.

This tradition has the rather obvious analogy of Yggdrasil—the World Ash Tree of Norse tradition, as well as calling to mind the Tree of Life in other traditions. It also is reminiscent of the Silver Branch of Manannan, mentioned above, as a symbol of Hy Breasil (Brazil). The tree was certainly important to the pagan Celts, as evidenced by the druids, who met in nematona—sacred groves—instead of temples. (Temples may have been a later Roman import, but I'm merely speculating about that.)

White Horse of Uffington (Sagittarius and Corona Australis constellations)a date

Neolithic art.

The White Horse is a figure cut into the chalky landscape of Uffington, near Ridgeway (i.e. between Oxford and Bath).

However, local folklore apparently holds this to be a depiction of the dragon slain by St. George on nearby Dragon Hill. This is unlikely, since that event is supposed to have taken place in Egypt.

The White Stag (Orion constellation)

The white stag is a familiar creature of myth and legend. Its origins are likely in the totemic period of early Indo-European society, particularly the northern societies of the Celts and pre-Indo-European cultures, whose subsistence was gained not only through agriculture, but through hunting.¹ This dependence on deer may be seen in the zoomorphic Celtic god Cernunnos, depicted as being a man with the antlers of a deer.

The white stag in Celtic myth is an indicator that the Otherworld is near. It appears when one is transgressing a taboo--such as when Pwyll trespassed into Arawn's hunting grounds, or when Peredur entered the Castle of Wonders in his second adventure at the house of the Lame King. It also appears as an impetus to quest--the white stag or hart often appears in the forests around King Arthur's court, sending the knights off on to adventure against gods and fairies. (C. S. Lewis uses this device at both the beginning and end of The Lion, the Witch, and the Wardrobe.²)

It also appears in French romance and lais as a similar indicator, such as in the lais of Marie de France, when Guigemar happens upon the strange sight of a white doe with antlers. He wounds the strange, hermaphroditic--note that word--animal, which curses him to grow up and fall in love.

It is also an important element of Hungarian mythology, which believed that a great white stag led the brothers Hunor and Magyar to settle in Scythia. Thus were established the Huns and Magyars.

The first thing to examine is the colour: white is a symbol of purity, while also a symbol of otherworldliness.

The white stag in Pwyll penduc Dyfed has a white body with red ears--the typical colours of otherworld creatures. It is also associated with the sun; in Christian iconography, the stag appears with the sun between its horns. Earlier gods associated with the stag were also nature deities: Cernunnos, Fionn, Gwynn ap Nudd. Santa Claus--that half-memory of Odin/Thor--is drawn by eight reindeer--who may or may not be white.

(If they live at the North Pole, they most likely are ;-)

The deer, finally, was a source of life, an important resource for early man.

Ultimately, the white stag is not only a creature of the gods, but is a god himself, symbolizing the creative life force of the universe--sex, life, and also death

Here is a much ignored vignette
The sword is Orion (source of the MENOLEA) – at the bottom
The asp or serpent is probably those from the “fleeing snake/serpent” Hydra
- not far from Leo constellation The Dove is always Pleiades (or Nostradamus).

In the dove's mouth is the problem.
Yes, it is a branch, with three limbs which usually means a triad
If this Branch is Ramus Pomifer (apple) Branch of the Hero Hercules, it means there are Plejarens in league with those from Hercules
The implication here is that Hercules the Hero is part of the triad.
The Cyan blue has an intention too – last time it was used it was the date of March 11, or it could simply mean “in the daytime”

I have made a few errors over the last four years, and here is one of them.

The animal here is clearly a tortoise, a land walking creature without flippers. The Tortoise was Lyra Vega (where the turtle is in Pisces). The intention here is that Vega/Lyra seems to be “walking away” or being sent by the coronet of the Prince (of Dark Men – Sirius) – it looks like an attack by two triad members

Some people might call the organ a heart, which would mean Leo or the Earth.

If it is a liver – there is an Alchemye List cipher here. “Liver” is ruled by Sagittarius, Pisces and Virgo.

However, Bile is a date, being June 10 – July 7

The Fleur de Lis (triad member) are five in number – but there are six (SEXE) coming, the abdicator is Argo (Soheil, the Golden Oar League)
The directions they are all pointing has meaning – and mostly seems away from the Prince

Note also that it is in the daytime

The Haruspex (auspex/auspices) a bronze sheep's liver of divination
Used by the Etruscans and said in myth that this knowledge was given to them by Tarchon

EXCERPTS FROM THE LOST BOOK OF ENKI ~

*Allah had use of the GATEWAY TO HEAVEN – a stage gate, so he was able to travel in time.

The fate of Nibiru is in my hands; to my conditions you must give heed!

Those were the words of Alalu, (Allah) from dark-hued Earth to Nibiru they were by the Speaker beamed.

When the words of Alalu to Anu, the king, were conveyed,

Anu astounded was; astounded were the counsellors, amazed were the sages.

Ala.Iu is not dead? they each other asked. [Allah had been sent to Mars where he had been found dead*]

The words from Nibiru they did not come; but from beyond the Hammered Bracelet (Main asteroid belt?)
were they spoken, (from Mars)

Anu the king, to you his greetings sends; of your well-being to learn he is pleased;

For your departing from Nibiru there was no reason, enmity is not in Anu's heart;

If gold for salvation you have indeed discovered, let Nibiru be saved!

Could indeed he on another world be living? they with on Earth, the seventh planet, is his asylum!

Now this is the account of the journey to the seventh planet...

And how the legend of the Fishgod who came from the waters was begun... Disbelief they were saying.

Toward the heavenly An, the third in planetary counts, the chariot continued. (Uranus)
On its side was An lying, its host of moons about him whirling.
To continue the journey was Ea saying, toward Anshar, the heaven's foremost prince, he was directing.
Soon the ensnaring pull of Anshar they could tell, its coloured rings with fear they admired.
Deftly did pilot Anzu the chariot guide, the crushing dangers he cleverly avoided.
The giant Kishar, foremost of firm planets, was next to be encountered.
Beyond the fifth (Jupiter) planet the Hammered Bracelet (Main asteroid belt) was lurking!
Having the Chariot thus slowed clown, toward the seventh planet Anzu the chariot directed.
Once, twice the Earth's globe he made the chariot circle, ever closer to the Firm Land he lowered it.
Snow hued was two thirds of the planet, dark hued was its middle.
They could see the oceans, they could see the Firm Lands; for the signal beacon from Ala.lu they were searching.
Anzu to heroes commands uttered, their Fishes' suits to put on he ordered.
Now this is the account of how Eridu on Earth was established, how the count of seven days was begun.

ENKI/EA was ALA.LU's (Allah's) father in law

In the clean place Ningishzidda to Ninmah the life-essence secrets was explaining,
How the essence from two kinds combined can be, he to her was showing.
The creatures in the tree cages are too odd, monstrous they are! Ninmah was saying.
Indeed so! Enki responded. To attain perfection, for that you are needed!

In our image and after our likeness to be, perchance an Anunnaki womb is required!

Adamu I shall call him! Ninmah was saying. One Who Like Earth's Clay Is, ADAM BORN OF CLAY that will be his name!

In Shurubak, in the House of Healing, the essences of Adamu and Ti-Amat were contemplated,
With the life essence of Anunnaki males and females they were compared.

Like two entwined serpents Ningishzidda the essences (DNA) separated, Arranged like twenty-two branches on a Tree of Life were the essences,

Their bits were comparable, the images and likenesses they properly determined.
Twenty-two they were in number; the ability to procreate they did not include!

Another two bits of the essence in the Anunnaki present Ningishzidda (Hermes/Thoth) to the others showed.

From the rib of Enki the life essence he extracted,

Into the rib of Adamu the life essence of Enki he inserted;

From the rib of Ninmah the life essence he extracted,

Into the rib of Ti-Amat the life essence he inserted.

Where the incisions were made, the flesh thereon he closed up.

Then the four of them by Ningishzidda were awakened. It is done! he proudly declared.

To their Tree of Life two branches have been added,

With procreating power, their life essences are now entwined! One male, one female

The branch of Long Living, to their essence tree was not added!

Then let them be where they are needed! Enlil (the YHWH) with anger said.

To the Abzu, away from the Edin, let them be expelled!

In the heavens the family of the Sun were taking stations,

The celestials of whom Earth is the seventh in a row were choosing places.

In the heavens Nibiru was approaching, the Sun's abode it was nearing.

Of the seven, in a row arraigned, [THE PLANETS FROM OUTSIDE IN] was by [red dwarf] Nibiru distracted

The little owl seated in the empty wheel of ages means it is a date, two dates ... May 13 - June 9 and October 28 – November 24 On the right is Stonehenge with what appears to be orbits of the inner planets in the golden ratio

The Herculean “branch” is telling us there is a DNA connection between the Hero and the reader. The twist in the Milky Way is a Mobius turn, indicating there is only one level and no boundaries to that plane represents the perfect ratio of the planets in relation to each other: the safety distance of their orbits... this is how it was discovered that there should be a planet between Mars and Jupiter. the banner is the Milky Way and it is twisted – but that is our view of it! Scorpio and Aries are both ruled by Mars and the banner above them means the orbits ARM is Cepheus the King (a reptilian race), Sword is Anu of Orion changing the orbits. The Apple tree is POMIFER of Hero Hercules who come to help. The Branch is DNA. There is a Mobius twist in the Universe which means time has only one boundary

On the right is the Veil – apron which has divided us from the New Age. The empty book means just that – a new “Diary” ... The plane of planetary division has not yet occurred – the wheel of time still has all its spokes.

There are many folds in the banner of the Milky Way which is OUR view

The symbol over the sage’s head refers to the Age of Aquarius. See the break in the Mobius twist?

The women are The Old Chrone (a woman with no grandchildren) facing Cassiopeia (the hybrid human breeders) And a one half poles shift with Virgo “out of the loop”

The long hair means Cassiopeia – the hybrid breeders of future humans

The banner in the centre describes the moves Earth will make on her way to another “plane” or orbit. Virgo zodiac will not be seen from our new view of the zodiacs – it will be an entire new age: end of A.D.

MOVING THE EARTH: above, the numerals read Pi

BELOW ... SOLAR FLARES ?

BOTTOM RIGHT EARTH AND MOON SEPARATED

Two more erratum:

1) Naming Canis Minor as the North Polestar when it is in fact URSA MINOR

2) The word SALIENT means the MOST IMPORTANT

Surprisingly this is quite a significant mention.

CUP - LEO 2ND DECAN. CRATER. THIGH (Hip) of Leo

CUP OF WRATH – CRATER from August 2nd to the 11th

The cup, or basin, with the cup, crater, in Leo. Matt 26:39

In Anagrams in Nostradamus text for the 48 ancient constellations by Allan Webber, most likely as a date

3 80 That the half bastard will be received. (A hybrid human)

4 20 One will bring there; bodies dead by water, land

4 38 Reverse side metalized will follow the trail of the blood.

5 34 fleet will enter the Gironde (Gyronne) by Blois

6 21 When those of the arctic pole are united together (by no ice)

Great terror and fear in the East

Newly elected, the great trembling (Earthquake) supported

6 83 A while after he will act very rudely

9 19 Lightning will fall, the Sun in Leo:

The great bastard issued from the great Maine (Hand is Leo)

9 33 Italy and the one of St. Mark (Marcabian/Ursa) to tremble

9 92 The King will want to enter the new city.

This is the King of Fear of 10 72

TWO: The Mayan numeral for 12 – making this an Anu glyph

THREE: is Musca (the fly/wasp) constellation

This is a small constellation just under Crux the Southern Cross.

It must have some significance since the fly appears on the right on the outside wall of an underground stage gate. One of the Lions represents Den.ebola (Hip) and the other, Regulus. Sirius holds the keys to everything - With the sun flaring and Aquila (Hanix of the North) trumpeting. At the lower right of the door lintel is the same triangle which was a recent strange sunspot earlier in 2012

Just as verification – the word “stave” is a date, the second decan in Leo! The stave – or ‘rod’ here has a triad which is under the canopy of Sirius (wearing the Anu cross).

5 34 GYRONNE: ON, (Anu) N (Erid.anu) GREY IO S.B. (both are Ursa Majorites/Marcabian) – BOILS N.Y. NEGRO

Miss Frances Rolleston Mazzaroth-Mizraim

Third Decan is Corvus the crow

(Revelation Chapter 6)

Then you will see Orion's other sons Canus Major and Canus Minor. (Orion has two other sons from previous marriages to gentile women). Notice too that Monoceros (Unicorn) appears with Canus Minor. (Canus Minor becomes Monoceros)

After that when Cancer* appears (the assembling of the Elect to Eliyah) look to the west and you will see Aquarius pour out his water. And the Final chapter, you will see Leo the Lion (of the tribe of Judah) rising in the east, pouncing on Hydra the Serpent (the Beast who's deadly wound was healed, the First Beast). You will then see Crater (the cup of the indignation of his wrath) on the back of Hydra, and at the end of Hydra's tail (his final end) you will see Corvus (the flesh eating birds of Armageddon)

When you see Leo appear in the east, look to the west and you will see Cetus (Behemoth) and Pisces the Fish (Leviathan) fall to the ground together (The day of the Earthquake Orion broke the bands that bind Pisces the fish together and the Elect have already fled to Eliyah). Woe to those that remain behind, they will drink from the same cup as the wicked.

*Cancer in which is Ursa Major the Marcabian, with whom the U.S. Military had several treaties for 'trade in men' & cattle mutilation

In the beginning God (Elohim) created the heaven and the earth. Notice the last letter of Elohim is Mem. Look it up in the oldest Hebrew dictionary you can find. Mem can mean water but it also means "From". The word Elohim should be translated "God – the- hand-from" or as we would say it "From the Hand of God"

Our Father Eloim – Which Art in Heaven. Hand is obsolete for Leo, in this instance, Regulus.

After the Elohim there is a Hebrew word they do not even bother to translate. Aleph-Tav. They are the first and the last letters of the Hebrew Alphabet. In Greek the first and last letters are Alpha and Omega.

From this first sentence I know that the blind are leading the blind. They do not know God, neither have they heard his voice at any time. That is why I said the blind leading the blind.

Their end is destruction, their time is at an end, so do not follow them.

Here I will give you a clue about how judgment will begin.

Did you ever stand out on a cold winter night and see how that when Orion rises in the east, Aquila the Eagle falls to the ground in the west? and after that when Cancer appears how in the west Aquarius pours out his Water? Did you also notice that when Leo rises in the east pouncing on Hydra the Serpent, pouring out Crater the Cup on the back of the serpent, and bringing Corvus with him, how that in the west Pisces the Fish fall to the ground together and Cetus also with them?

In the "queens chamber" of the great pyramid of Giza there are 2 "air shafts". The one in the south points to the Brightest Star in the Heavens, the one born of the Virgin, Sirius/Ysus currently. It was once Coma

The one in the north points to the least of all the stars, the least of the flock, (Jeremiah chapters 49 and 50) aka Orion.

Notice how the least of the flock overcomes Draco the Dragon (the second beast of Revelation).

In the "kings chamber" of the great pyramid there are also 2 "air shafts". The one in the north points to the north star who's name means ridden on or "Return". It is talking about the return of the one risen from the dead. The other "air shaft", the one in the south is pointing to the third star in Orion's belt, His youngest son Eliyah.

The story ends with Leo the Lion of the tribe of Judah pouncing on Hydra the Serpent (the first beast of revelation). Pours out Crater (the cup of the indignation of His wrath) and the story ends with Corvus (the flesh eating birds of Armageddon)
